Man Horse Conservation Society Amps Up Membership

By: Hyacinth

As a fairly young organization, the Man Horse Conservation Society is continually looking to increase membership and support. The newest tactic of the group: awarding t-shirts to screaming youngsters, the organization's largest supporting group. The shirts sport a relatively attractive likeness of Man Horse, along with their logo. Although there are a great number of supporters, there is still a great deal of angst from those that fear the half-man-half-beast. Instead of focusing their efforts on current membership, the society should spend more time and energy on those that don't believe. Perhaps this Newshound reporter can get to the bottom of this controversy before the week is up.

Musings

- Signs that things aren't going so well: The light at the end of the tunnel is a train.
- Signs that things aren't going so well: Your doctor's last name is House. You think you just have a cold.
- Signs that things aren't going so well: You watch Dora to study for your Spanish exam.
- Signs that things aren't going so well: Your very good friend is trying to make you eat green eggs and ham.
- Signs that things aren't going so well: Your alphabet soup spells out "fatty."
- Signs that things aren't going so well: Your surgeon is a strong believer in the 5 second rule.
- Signs that things aren't going so well: Your best friend is a volleyball.
- Signs that things aren't going so well: Your parents give you a bath toy. It's a toaster.
- Signs that things aren't going so well: Your significant other hands you a copy of Twilight, with a note attached saying "please see for tips."
- Signs that things aren't going so well: Ben and Jerry are the only real friends you've got. You're lactose intolerant.
- Signs that things aren't going so well: You start lifting weights so you'll be strong enough to scoop out the ice cream.
- Signs that things aren't going so well: You have a hook for a hand, a ticking crocodile is following you, and you've dedicated your life to fighting a little boy who wears green tights.
- Signs that things aren't going so well: You thought you found a freckle you didn't realize you had... it turned out to be chocolate.

- Signs that things aren't going so well: You sold your car so that you could afford gasoline.
- Signs that things aren't going so well: You begin diary entries with "Sorry to bother you again..."
